Valhalla, NY – July 13, 2009 - Select Telecom of Valhalla, NY, a provider of custom telecommunications systems for businesses, announces the addition of surveillance system services to their full line of telecommunications services. Licensed by the New York State Department of State, Select Telecom can now provide installation, servicing and maintenance services. Mike Durante, president, CEO of Select Telecom, stated that "Our clients have started requesting surveillance system equipment and maintenance along with our telecommunications products and services, now we can add the benefit of a full suite of IP surveillance cameras and other security products in a total managed solution".

An increasing number of businesses are realizing greater economy, effectiveness and efficiency by integrating surveillance and telecommunications systems. "All this high tech gear works well together", states Jerry Moscariello, Vice President and Project Manager, "and you get much greater control".

The maintenance of today's high tech business surveillance systems has become a problematic issue. The cost of maintenance services is increasing and there is a lack of trained, experienced techs. Many security services companies are cutting down on training costs and reducing payroll. "There's a growing demand for high quality 24/7 maintenance services for surveillance systems" adds Paul Durante, Select Telecom COO, "we're going to bring our expertise in high quality, well priced telecommunication system maintenance into this important market".
